

Billy and the Quest for Lost Colors

Cowboy story • 3-4 years old

In the wide, sunny land of the West, there lived a young cowboy named Billy. Billy wore a big, brown hat and shiny boots. He lived on a bright, colorful ranch with friendly horses and mooing cows.

One day, Mr. Hanks, the ranch owner, came to Billy. "Billy," he said, "the colors of our ranch are gone! We need them back!"

Billy scratched his head. "I can help," he said bravely. "I will find the colors!"

Billy climbed on his horse, Dusty. "Let's go find the colors, Dusty!" he said. Dusty neighed and began to trot.

They rode across the green fields, where the grass gently waved. They saw a rainbow shining in the sky. "Maybe the colors are hiding near the rainbow," Billy thought.

As they approached the rainbow, they met a kind fox. "Hello, Billy!" said the fox. "Are you looking for the colors?"

"Yes, Mr. Fox," Billy replied. "Have you seen them?"

The fox nodded. "The colors are with the Wind. Follow the breeze, and you will find them!"

Billy and Dusty followed the soft breeze through the tall, yellow cornfields. They found the Wind playing happily in the fields.

"Hello, Wind!" Billy called. "Do you have the colors of our ranch?"

The Wind laughed, swirling around them. "Yes, Billy, I borrowed them for fun! But I can give them back."

Billy smiled. "Thank you, Wind! The ranch needs its colors."

The Wind blew gently, and suddenly, colors danced back to the ranch. The grass shone green, the sky shimmered blue, and the flowers bloomed in pink and purple.

Billy waved goodbye to the Wind and rode back on Dusty. When they arrived, Mr. Hanks was waiting. "Billy, you did it!" he cheered. "The ranch is full of color again!"

All the animals cheered too. "Hooray for Billy and Dusty!" they shouted.

That night, under the twinkling stars, Billy sat with Dusty. "We did it, Dusty!" he said. "We found the colors!"

Dusty neighed softly, and together they looked up at the sky, where the stars were bright and happy.

Billy knew that with a brave heart and a kind friend, any adventure could have a happy ending. And so, they drifted off to sleep, dreaming of more colorful adventures in the land of the West.

The quiz: did you understand the story well?

1) Who is the brave boy in the story?

- Billy
- Tom
- Sam
- Jack

2) What was missing from the ranch?

- Colors
- Food
- Toys
- Music

3) Who told Billy to follow the breeze?

- The fox
- The cow
- The horse
- The bird

4) What did Billy ride to find the colors?

- Dusty the horse
- A bicycle
- A car
- A train

Correct answers:

1) Billy 2) Colors 3) The fox 4) Dusty the horse

Glossary: complicated words in the story

Cowboy: A person who takes care of animals on a farm, often on a horse.

Ranch: A large farm where animals like horses and cows live and eat.

Mooing: The sound a cow makes, like 'moo' when it calls out.

Trotted: When a horse moves a little faster than walking, with small jumps.

Rainbow: A curved band of many colors that appears in the sky after rain.

Breeze: A soft, gentle wind that you can feel on your skin.

Nodded: To move your head up and down to say yes or agree.

Borrowed: To take something for a short time and give it back later.

Swirling: Turning around and around in a smooth, spinning way.

Twinkling: When lights or stars shine with small, quick flashes.

Adventure: An exciting trip or activity where you might find new things.