

Max and the Singing Sea

Underwater travel story • 3-4 years old

Part One: Down to the Blue

Little Max was three. He loved the sea. He loved to watch the waves from the shore. One morning, Max put on his green hat and his yellow boots. He took a deep breath. "I want to see under the sea," said Max. His mummy smiled. "Let's go on an adventure, Max. We will look for the special song book. It is said to be under the water, with the singing fishes." Max felt brave. He held his mummy's hand.

They walked to the edge of the water. The water was warm. Max wiggled his toes and giggled. Then, a magic bubble floated down. "Come with me," whispered the bubble. Max and his mummy held the bubble gently. Pop! Suddenly, they could breathe under the sea. Max's eyes grew big. He saw blue water, bright fish, and soft, waving seaweed.

Part Two: Friends under the Sea

Max and his mummy swam slowly. They saw a little turtle. "Hello, Max!" said the turtle with a small laugh. "Are you looking for the singing book?" Max nodded. "Yes, please! Do you know where it is?" The turtle waved his flippers. "Follow the singing fish."

Max listened. He heard soft, happy sounds. "La la la," sang a group of yellow fish. Max smiled. He felt calm. He followed the fish past gentle jellyfish and a smiling crab who waved a big red claw.

The water felt cool and safe. Max held his mummy's hand and floated like a leaf. He saw a shiny shell. It shone in the sun. Inside the shell was a tiny book, sparkling and blue.

Part Three: The Song Book

Max opened the book. The fish gathered close. "Let's sing!" said Max. He sang softly, "La la la, swim with me." The fish wiggled and sang. The turtle swayed. Even the crab tapped his claws.

Max felt very happy. "Thank you for showing me the way," he said. The sea friends smiled. Max put the book in the shell and closed it gently.

Pop! The magic bubble came back. Max and his mummy floated up, up, up. Soon they stood on the shore again. Max held his mummy's hand. He felt calm and warm. "I love the sea and I love singing," said Max.

Mummy hugged Max. "I love our calm adventure together," she said. Max smiled. He dreamed of the soft blue water and the friendly sea animals. The sea was full of calm, magical songs.
